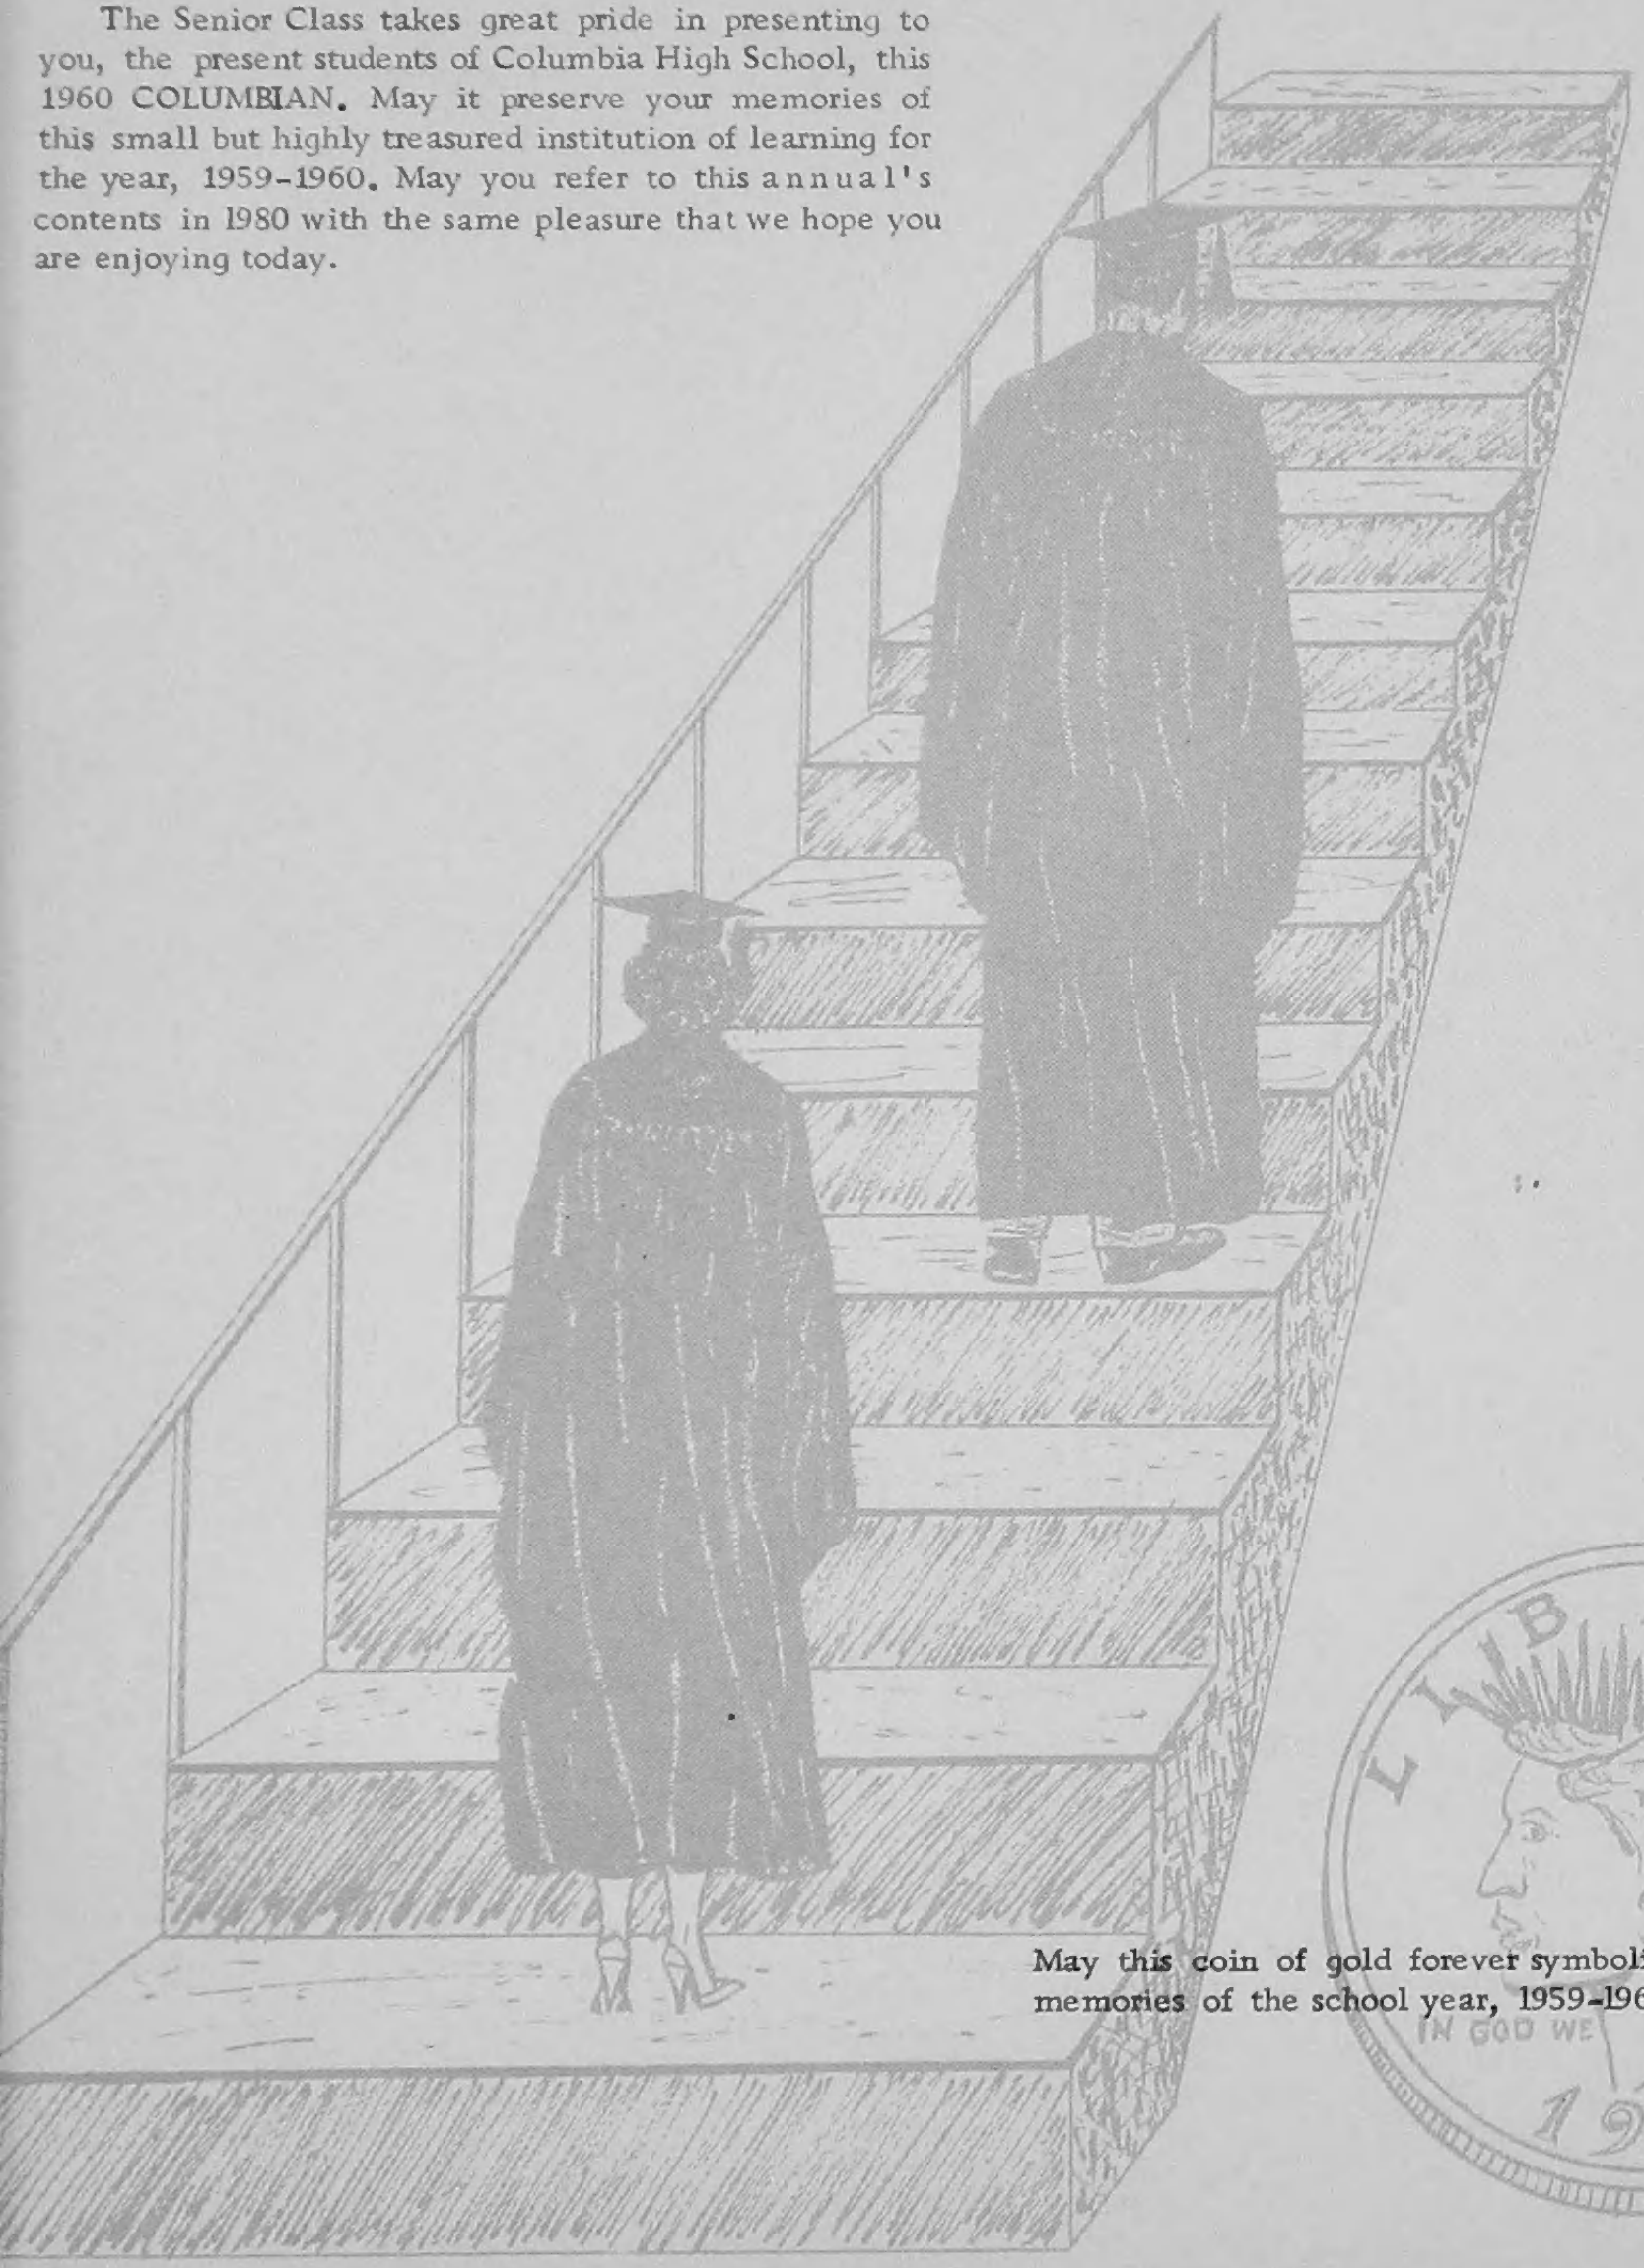
Foreword

The Senior Class takes great pride in presenting to you, the present students of Columbia High School, this 1960 COLUMBIAN. May it preserve your memories of this small but highly treasured institution of learning for the year, 1959-1960. May you refer to this annual's contents in 1980 with the same pleasure that we hope you are enjoying today.



May this coin of gold forever symbolize those golden memories of the school year, 1959-1960, treasured by

Dedication

As the Senior Class of 1960 prepares to leave the Chambers of Columbia High School, it takes much pride in properly bestowing a great honor upon someone who has been the dominant force in guiding us up that steep summit of attaining a high school education.

We feel that the example set, and advice given by this person will be a determining factor in accomplishing our goals.

We, the Seniors of 1960, admire, respect, love, thank, and do with much gratitude dedicate this 1960 COLUMBIAN to our principal, a great humanitarian, MR. WILLIAM JAMES NICHOLS.

Poem

Go forward, though the journey be hard.
To stop means only defeat.
Then you will forever be barred
From reaching your goal at the peak.
Though your journey be wearisome and slow,
And the hazards you find will be many,
Just remember when you're feeling low,
Your rewards, when they come, will be plenty.

Class History

As the time is drawing nearer for us to walk across the stage to receive our diplomas, we can hardly realize that our high school days are almost over.

Looking back, the memories of our first years in school flood our minds. It seems only yesterday that we were busily learning, and getting promoted from grade to grade.

Almost every year we gained new members or lost old ones. First of all, Monty Harrell came to us in the second grade. Then in the seventh grade Gene Combs, Betty Lou Norman, Gloria Armstrong, and Susie Workman joined our group. In the eighth grade, we happily received Robert Cartwright and Frankie Brickhouse.

The eight years in grammar school having slipped by quickly, we found ourselves in high school. During those days as freshmen we were confused and shy, but very proud to be eligible to participate in the high school activities.

We were just really beginning to feel at home in high school our sophomore year. Naturally, we had to study harder than ever, but we engaged in and enjoyed extracurricular activities, too.

As usual, we, as juniors, had more prestige, and numerous exciting things happened to us.

In our junior play, "Crazy as a Loon," we developed dramatically and socially. The rehearsals were fun, but the real performance was a huge success!!

Another event which highlighted our junior year was the day our class rings arrived. Excited, yes, but that wasn't even the word to describe our enthusiasm.

Then came the "grand finale" of our junior year, the Junior-Senior Banquet at Mattamuskeet Lodge. Mr. Ernest Sutton, our junior advisor, helped us over the rough spots and helped us prepare for our special events.

Now, after much study and anticipation, we are seniors. Mrs. Madge Van Horne, our advisor, was really indispensable as we worked on our yearbook, trying to make it the best yet, and began preparing for our senior play, trip to Washington, D. C., and graduation.

As the history of this, the Class of '60, ends, we wish to extend our thanks to all of our friends, parents and teachers who have guided us into the fields of knowledge and have done their best to make each of us a success thus far.

Class Prophecy

The year—1980; the place—on an airplane just leaving a New York Airport. I, SUSIE WORKMAN stewardess, had just finished making my passengers comfortable and had sat down to read the morning issue of "The New York Times." The headlines were pleasing to the eye for they were: "MONTY HARRELL, President of the United Nations, Announces that World Peace Has Finally Been Achieved." To celebrate this joyous event, the President of the United States, NEIL SCOTT, and the first lady, PEGGY DAVIS, are going to their country farm at Columbia, North Carolina. It seems that MICKEY BRUNER, the Sales Manager of the President's Sporting Goods Factory, will serve as caddy for the President's game of golf with BERTRAM DAVENPORT, Chief Engineer of space ships for Project X, which will explore Pluto.

The article states, as I read further, that IRIS SNELL, Secretary of the Treasury and also tutor of the President's children, will remain in D. C. with the children. The President announced at this time that he will undergo his quarterly check-up after his return to the capitol, if his personal physician, JOAN RHODES, returns from the Andes with her millionaire husband, AUBREY BRICKHOUSE, who is looking for new oil prospects there.

As I turn to page IV, I find ROBERT CARTWRIGHT, Editor-in-Chief of this paper, blasting the Scott Adminstration for its Compulsory Space Insurance Act.

As I am about to read further, I am interrupted by the plane's captain, FRANKIE BRICKHOUSE, who wants a cup of coffee. As I return from the cockpit, I run into one of the passengers, whom I immediately recognize as GENE COMBS, a confirmed bachelor, whose work is Model Photography. As we sit down to reminisce, he surprises me by having me meet two of his models, ROSALIE MIZELL and GLADYS HASSELL, who were also members of the Class of '60. Rosalie tells me that three members have become famous in the entertainment field. It seems that BETTY NORMAN, GLORIA ARMSTRONG, and GAY ROUGHTON, who are now known as the Gay-Lue Trio, are fast replacing the still-famous recordings of the McQuire Sisters. Gladys informed me that RITA WARD had the audience of The LARRY GREEN Show, which replaced the Ed Sullivan Show, rolling in the aisles with her comedy act, "The Wildest of the Beatniks."

As Gene thumbs through his issue of "The New York Times" to show me a picture of his models, he calls to my attention an advertisement run by NORMAN VANHORNE, president of New York City Motors. The advertisement reads, "For the best overhauling job available in the United States today visit us and have the job done under the supervision of chief mechanic, BOBBY VOLIVA."

As Gene throws down the paper, a picture of GORDON DEAVER, coach of the New York Knickerbockers, turns up. Opposite it is a headline which reads, "JUNIOR TARKINGTON, pitcher of a shut-out game for the New York Yankees last year signed a contract for the 1981 season for $250,000." As we land at the Hollywood Airport, we all plan to go out for the evening at RUTH SELBY'S Night Club Tropicana.

That night at the Tropicana, Mrs. Vanhorne, who is now president of Vanhorne Productions, was sitting at a table opposite us. Upon seeing us, she came over to talk with us about how she had achieved her fame through her academy-award-winning movie, starring Kathy and Craig Brickhouse.

After discussing how the 1960 COLUMBIAN won the 1960 Pulitzer Prize for good literature, we all toasted, "May the golden memories of C. H. S. live with us forever."
